

EIR Ref:2019/015

16th August 2019

REQUEST UNDER ENVIRONMENTAL INFORMATION (SCOTLAND) REGULATIONS 2004

We refer to your request for information, received by email on 31st July 2019. The information you have requested is environmental information, as defined in Regulation 2 of the Environmental Information (Scotland) Regulations 2004 (EIRs). The Park Authority has an obligation to deal with your request under the EIRs and an option to also deal with your request under the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 (FOISA), unless the public interest lies in dealing with your request solely under the EIRs. We consider that the public interest in dealing with your request solely under the EIRs outweighs the public interest in also dealing with your request under FOISA, on the basis that the public interest is not served by duplicating consideration of your request under both regimes. We have therefore applied the exemption in section 39(2) of FOISA and dealt with your request under the EIRs alone.

Your specific requests and the response from the National Park Authority are provided below.

“I would like to make a Freedom of Information request regarding muirburn in Loch Lomond national park.

Could you provide me with any stats you have that you can reasonably collate on the area of land or estates that burn land.

The Park Authority has no statistics held on any land or estates that burn land in the National Park. Accordingly we have to advise under Regulation 10(4)(a) of the EIRs that this information is not held.

In accordance with our requirement to provide advice and assistance under Regulation 9 of the EIRs we can advise that there is very little Muirburn in the National Park, as we have no driven grouse moors. Muirburn is not a practice solely used on grouse moors, some hills may be burned to remove old heather, allowing younger heather through which will have more grazing value.

The Muirburn season runs from 1st October to 15th April inclusive in Scotland and the hills in the National Park are rarely dry enough to allow burning during this time.

In particular I would be interested in the amount of peatland that has been burned and the parks policy on this.”

The Park Authority has no written policy but would advise Land Managers to follow the National Policy on the Muirburn Code, which can be found on the website for Scottish Natural Heritage at: <https://www.nature.scot/guidance-management-moorland-muirburn-code>

Yours sincerely
