LOCH KATRINE TO CALLANDER ALONG THE GREAT TROSSACHS PATH

Callander to Loch Katrine

Follow this trail on STRAVA

We got off the Trossachs Explorer bus at Loch Katrine to embark on this 20k trail. The trail quickly takes you across a bridge and into a section of pine trees, before dropping down to the side of Loch Achray, where it was glorious to have the silence broken by the lap of the waves. At the five mile point you reach the village of Brig o'Turk and a handy café. There is quite a bit of climbing from this point which is why the café is such a good place to stop and refuel to give you the energy to push up the steeper bits. It is all worth it though, because once you reach the top there are miles of running where you are up high enough to get a gorgeous view of the hills all around. You then descend on the Great Trossachs path into Callander. This true 10 out of 10 adventure has a bit of everything - some challenging uphill section, some very runnable flat sections, a café, and lots of places to restock and nip to the loo!
